A veil had been whisked aside; the tract of each one's outlook was to have a new horizon thenceforward—for a short time or for a long.

—Thomas Hardy

We all saw and sensed the kaleidoscopic changes on our campus this year; and how many of us were inclined to be too "cool" to say how much we loved them? How many of us silently wished we could turn cartwheels on the hockey field that first spring day warm enough to go outside? Those of us who are leaving—we are the ones suddenly trying to make up for lost time in our last few months of being a part of Harpeth Hall.

To exist in the fleet joy of becoming, to be a channel for life as it flashes by in its gaiety and courage, cool water glittering in the sunlight—in a world of sloth, anxiety, and aggression.

To exist for the future of others without being suffocated by their present.

—Dag Hammarskjöld

It is impossible to just “be” at Harpeth Hall. We find ourselves volunteering to work on an Easter project, to make a club poster, to staple muslin together for the Tea Dance ceiling. Where does the spirit come from? That is part of the mystery and distinction of Harpeth Hall.

All the world's a stage . . .

—William Shakespeare

Day by day a million scenes unfold, a million incidents—all enacted with flourish by a number of unknowing performers. Everyone is a part; everyone has something to say about something. And at times, everyone listens.

He drew forth a phrase from his treasury and spoke it softly to himself:

—A day of dappled seaborne clouds. The phrase and the day and the scene harmonized in a chord. Words. Was it their colours? He allowed them to glow and fade, hue after hue: sunrise gold, the russet and green of apple orchards, azure of waves, the grey-fringed fleece of clouds. No, it was not their colours: it was the poise and balance of the period itself.

—James Joyce

Try to be one of the people on whom nothing is lost. . . .

—Henry James

But for all of us there are times when such a task seems impossible. The desire is there, the yearning to feel the import of every thought. But discouraging moments inevitably come—defeat in a contest, failure at an exam . . . until suddenly something happens—an idea materializes—all the struggling seems worthwhile. We realize these will be the memories; these will be the ideas that may dim, but will never disappear. And they will come back to us in flashes when we least expect and most need them. Maybe this is what it means for us to be those on whom nothing is lost.

DEDICATION

During her years at Harpeth Hall, Miss Watkins has succeeded in making the required history informative and exciting. With her vibrant personality, expressive gestures, and off-the-record comments about everything from colonial life to the War on Poverty, she transmits to the students her lively interest in American and European history as well as political science. One of the few teachers at Harpeth Hall who is hospitable not only to students but also to visiting dogs, Miss Watkins is a friend of all. Therefore, we are proud to dedicate the 1968 edition of MILESTONES to Miss Violet Jane Watkins.

HEADMISTRESS

Miss McMurry, as Headmistress of Harpeth Hall, is ever trying to improve our school. She has transmuted her fresh and vital ideas into such realities as the new biology lab, the Annie C. Allison Library, and the Middle School now under construction. Her unceasing efforts to better Harpeth Hall will continue to make it grow into a finer institution every year she is with us.

Organizations

*I miss them as friends more than as Beatles.
Because we're not Beatles to each other, you know. . . . Everybody lookin' at us sees the Beatles.
But we're not the Beatles at all. We're just us.*

—John Lennon

Although it's a bizarre thought, we are like them. Combine the willingness of one girl, the talent of another, the spirit of a third—keep on and soon you'll have the makings of an organization which will thrive as a unit and radiate with pride. Onlookers see the results—the team. But often they do not see beyond to the dedicated individuals contributing part of themselves to the club. Each one of us is there, though, just as there is a John, a George, a Paul, a Ringo for every set of Beatles. After all—we, too, are just us.

STUDENT COUNCIL

This year our Student Council, composed of representatives elected by each class, undertook a massive and controversial task: the reformation of our Honor System. These girls had the additional annual responsibilities of planning for Orientation, the Tea Dance, and the All-Club Picnic. Most of all: they tried to keep the student body in line throughout the year!

MILESTONES 1968

How do you describe an organization like our MILESTONES staff? What goes on in that secret little room behind the door branded "Keep Out"? The only girls who know are the twelve varying personalities on the staff. These girls dedicate a major part of their school year to producing the yearbook, and this year they have been rewarded with fun, friendships, and satisfaction.

PENSTAFF

Penstaff, a group of students selected for their special interest and talent in creative writing, annually publishes the literary magazine, Hallmarks. This year, to incite interest in applying for membership, the imaginative members of Penstaff presented a unique program which included everything from throwing pies to reading poems by candlelight.

It is notable that our Honor Society has never before selected such a large group of girls for membership: twenty-three seniors were tapped this year. These girls excel in scholarship, leadership, and citizenship, and as members, they assume the responsibility of presenting the Wednesday morning chapel service. This year we feel that our Honor Society has provided exceptional programs.

Honors

People ask me what it takes to be a great skier. It takes the gift—just as a great actor or soccer player must have the gift. But besides the gift it takes that availability of the mind which permits total control of all the elements that lead to victory. Call it a certain harmony. Harmony breeds harmony and brings victory. Have you noticed that winners are never tired, never ill? The skier who complains about feeling worn out is one for whom all has gone wrong. I live in fear of losing that total harmony.

—Jean-Claude Killy

National Merit Scholarship Finalists

Seated: C. Weesner, Wagner, Davidson, Baker, Connor, C. Anderson. Standing: Richards, Blair, Ozier, A. Landrum, Bronaugh, N. Couch, Simpson.

Commendees

This year an unprecedented number of Harpeth Hall seniors distinguished themselves in the National Merit Scholarship program. Thirteen students received Finalist awards, and seven received Letters of Commendation. Each girl should feel especially honored because she ranks among the top one or two percent of the nation in scholastic achievement.

Left: Carol Nelson, Flower Girl; Tish Scott; Naomi Dale, Flower Girl.

Each year the senior that best represents the highest ideals and standards of the school is honored with the title "Lady of the Hall." The student body that selected Tish Scott will remember her for her friendliness, sense of responsibility, and gracious acceptance of the honors she received. Lucy Keeble, Ruthie Brown, Barbara Meacham, and Cathy Anderson were chosen by their classes to represent them as members of her court.

KATIE WRAY AWARD

The senior who has achieved the highest scholastic average during her four years at Harpeth Hall is presented the Katie Wray Award at graduation. Linda Blair, this year's recipient, was most deserving of this award. She distinguished herself in her years here as an outstanding student and helpful friend.

LINDA BLAIR

CITIZENSHIP BRACELET

The Citizenship Bracelet, one of the highest honors in the school, is given annually to the senior who has received the greatest number of citizenship points during her four years at Harpeth Hall. This year the recipient of the bracelet was Ophelia Thompson, whose sincerity, warmth, and idealism distinguished her throughout her four years.

To be nobody-but-myself—in a world which is doing its best, night and day, to make you everybody else—means to fight the hardest battle which any human being can fight, and never stop fighting.

—e. e. cummings

During the hectic pace of the Harpeth Hall day, the moments that a girl has to be alone with herself are few. But during those few quiet times when she can catch her breath for a minute or two, she becomes an individual, thinking about a new idea she came across in one of her classes, or silently laughing about a private joke, or even just noticing that everything's green again; she becomes nobody-but-herself.

Sports

The most thrilling part of every sport offered at Harpeth Hall comes in the competition among the clubs and among the classes. Excitement at the games is more than just a close score or frantic yelling on the part of the cheerleaders . . . more than just the hectic pace of the game. Most of all it stems from the energy radiating from every girl participating in the contest. Suddenly the only thing that matters is to do her best for her team. She may not be the best player, but in terms of spirit and energy, she is the most valuable. For this is the culmination of all the time and effort that she has put into that particular sport . . .
For us there is only the trying. . . .

—T. S. Eliot

Special Events

*Hey world, you better open your eyes;
It's time you realize
That there's a whole new world,
A whole new kind of people.
We've got this great big world on a string
And we can do anything. . .
Because we're young.*

—Celeste Pappas

The special events at Harpeth Hall are part of a great tradition. But, as the song says, we look on them for the first time with the new eyes of the young. They become vital with the energy of new ideas, new enthusiasm. As the events of the year take on the special touch of 1968, we will remember this was characteristically Harpeth Hall, yet characteristically ours.

JUNIOR AND SENIOR PLAYS

Every year the Junior and Senior Classes present an original play in competition with each other. The plays are judged on script, songs, and production. This year the Seniors' struggle to overcome the evil effects of the Lost Senior Drug emerged victorious over the Juniors' voyage back to Ward-Belmont in the 1940's.

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

SHEALIA PHILLIPS Martha Washington

MARY FOLLIN George Washington

This year the freshmen added a comic touch to the usual orderly march of the soldiers, song and dance of the sailors, and performance of the minuet, by singing "Froggie Went A-Courtin'." At the end of the program Mary Follin and Shealia Phillips as George and Martha Washington led a lively rendition of the Virginia Reel.

SOPHOMORE PLAY

The Sophomore Play has always been one of the most entertaining parts of graduation weekend. This presentation by the sophomore speech students, directed by Mrs. John Williams, is the Sophomores' compliment to the outgoing Seniors for their support and help as a sister class. This year the ghostly comedy, I Sincerely Doubt That This Old House Is Very Haunted, gave us a chance to laugh together one last time.

what is still to come.*

—Leonardo da Vinci

GRADUATION

Graduation. The suspended moment when we said good-bye to the parties and papers, rosebuds and white dresses, and hello to, well, what were we saying hello to? For this was one hour with our roses in full bloom and the summer warm upon us.
